BOOKS AND BOOK REVIEWS

Applied Ethics in Mental Health Care: An Interdisciplinary Reader

ARTICLES

People with dementia need better pain management
http://www.cmaj.ca/content/185/14/1195.full.html

Health care experiences of people with dementia and their caregivers: A meta-ethnographic analysis of qualitative studies
http://www.cmaj.ca/content/185/14/E669.abstract.html

Ethical and conceptual issues in eating disorders.

Repetitive foreign body ingestion: ethical considerations.

Commitment to assessment and treatment: comprehensive care for patients gravely disabled by alcohol use disorders.

[Neuroethics as the neuroscience of ethics.]
Chronic disorders of consciousness following coma: Part two: ethical, legal, and social issues.

An online neural substrate for sense of agency.

Avoiding the road to ethical disaster: overcoming vulnerabilities and developing resilience.

Goodbye to all that: a short history of CCSVI.

Brain Stimulation Sparks 'Machiavellian' Choices
Culotta E. Science 2013; 342(6154): 25 http://www.sciencemag.org/content/342/6154/25.short

Genetic research on addiction: ethics, the law, and public Health.

The ethics of refusing a request for off-label deep brain stimulation currently in clinical trial.

Forensic case formulation: theoretical, ethical and practical issues.

Mind how you go
http://www.nature.com/news/mind-how-you-go-1.13904
NEWS AND SOCIAL MEDIA

The effect of diminished belief in free will

Autism and the Communication of ‘Risk’

Male brain versus female brain: how they differ?

Zamboni MS vein theory debunked by study

The Architecture of Autism

Physician assisted suicide will eventually be legal in Canada