ARTICLES

It is time for a harmonized ethical review procedure across Europe.

Magnetic Resonance Imaging (MRI) and Prognostication in Neonatal Hypoxic-Ischemic Injury: A Vignette-Based Study of Canadian Specialty Physicians.

The Value of Consciousness.

Disclosure, Consent, and the Exercise of Patient Autonomy in Surgical Innovation: A Systematic Content Analysis of the Conceptual Literature.

Informed consent and shared decision-making in cases of futility.

Does the Golem Feel Pain? Moral Instincts and Ethical Dilemmas Concerning Suffering and the Brain.

‘One Can Always Say No.’ Enriching the Bioethical Debate on Antisocial Behaviour, Neurobiology and Prevention: Views of Juvenile Delinquents
Horstkötter D, Berghmans R, Feron, De Wert G. Bioethics. first published online: 29 Jul 2012

Generating genius: how an Alzheimer’s drug became considered a ‘cognitive enhancer’ for healthy individuals.
http://www.biomedcentral.com/1472-6939/15/37/abstract
NEWS AND SOCIAL MEDIA

What Michael Did

Here’s how we should regulate brain enhancement devices

Inside the Strange New World of DIY Brain Stimulation

What’s the evidence on using rational argument to change people’s minds?

(en)Gendering psychiatric disease: what does sex/gender have to do with posttraumatic stress disorder (PTSD)?

Phineas Gage, Neuroscience’s Most Famous Patient

Policymakers seduced by neuroscience to justify early intervention agenda

Changing the landscape of psychiatric research: What will the RDoC initiative by NIMH achieve?